Ronald McDonald House Charities and Miami Mom Collective Are Hosting a Halloween-Themed Bingo Night and Costume Contest Benefiting the Charity

MIAMI, FL – October 6, 2020 — Ronald McDonald House Charities of South Florida (RMHC) and Miami Mom Collective are hosting the first-ever Spooktacular Bingo & Costume Contest benefiting RMHC on Friday, October 30, 2020, at 6:00 P.M. via Zoom. Children, families and Bingo-loving adults will have the opportunity to play several rounds of Halloween-themed Bingo, win exciting prizes, participate in a fun costume contest and enjoy appearances from special guests—like Ronald McDonald himself—from the comfort of their own home.

Since 1982, RMHC of South Florida, located at Jackson Memorial Hospital, has served nearly 600 pediatric families annually. All funds raised at this virtual event will help RMHC continue to provide a 'home away from home' to even more ill children and their families while they receive life-saving treatment at nearby pediatric hospitals.

"When a child is sick or injured, nothing is more important than having their family close by—something that has proven to be even more difficult during the pandemic due to social distancing rules," said Soraya Rivera-Moya. "By donating just $20, participants will not only have the opportunity to win great prizes, but will sponsor a family's one-night stay at the Ronald McDonald House in Miami."

Larger sponsorship opportunities are available for participants who would like to help keep even more families together at RMHC. To learn more about event registration and sponsorship opportunities, visit <https://apps.rmhcsouthflorida.org/upcoming-events?EV=48>.
